

Sarah Hibbert's Fabric to Collage workshop –
Saturday 12th March 2022 10.00-17.00

We are absolutely delighted to be able to invite you to an all-day workshop with Sarah Hibbert.

This workshop is really a two-skills-in-one workshop, (paper collage translated into fabric) in which you will learn how to create stunning paper collages from on-hand materials and accurately transpose your design into a fabulous quilt. Rather than using a collage of fabric pieces, you will discover how to take readily available paper that you have-to-hand, to inspire a one-of-a-kind quilt for your home.

About Sarah

Sarah likes to find inspiration in everyday objects to create fun paper art using recyclable materials from wrappers, pages from magazines, and even canned food labels. She uses these collages for initial design to springboard to a full-sized fabric quilt.

Sarah loves the combination of old and new; of the traditional and contemporary; patterns passed down through the generations and her personal contribution bringing something new. There is also a book in the pipeline due to be published shortly called "Collage to Quilt". It is the first craft book of its kind, combining the disciplines of paper collage and quilting. Signed copies will be available from her website.

Sarah has had a number of pieces accepted for juried international exhibitions, including the prestigious Quilt Con where five of her works were accepted in 2019. Her work is in a number of private and public collections including the Quilters' Guild of the British Isles who in 2019, acquired her Reflections quilt for their permanent collection, to represent modern quilting. Her Macaroons quilt (illustrated on the first page) has been featured by Festival of Quilts 2020 and 2021 for their poster tickets and publicity material.
